

President's Message

2009-2010 year is the start for many changes facing our organization on a state and national level. We have seen in a short time period the reorganization of BPW/USA and BPW Foundation into a single entity. The Louisiana Federation during the State Conference June 2009 voted to stay the course and support the new merged organization. Within our state we continue to face changes as local organizations go their own way and new members come on board with the understanding that they are joining a new more streamlined BPW that has taken the mission statement as an edict to get back to basics. In 2009 we are finding that women's rights are not as secure as one would hope. Financial decisions in budgets throughout our state and on the federal level are not a direct attack on rights but by not funding programs that support women causing as much damage. Domestic violence support programs are being cut. Title IX is under a threat of cuts that are not equal between programs at colleges. The Equal Rights Amendment is only a few states shy of being passed and Louisiana is one of those states that have not stepped up to the bar. Equal Pay saw great strides forward with the Lilly Ledbetter Act however our state continues to sideline the issue. We are a powerful voice if we unite and speak to our legislators. We are strong if we continue to provide education to women so that they can further their careers. We are a support to each other through networking and friendships. We are the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women. I look forward to a year of great changes and a group who has stood the test of time and will continue for the next ninety years.

Thank you.
Cynthia Thompson
President BPW/LA

SWC District talks BPW

The Southwest Central District's Fall meeting held in Monroe on Saturday, Sept. 26, 2009 focused on BPW's recent merger and what BPW means to me. We did not use an outside speaker as we felt it was important to let the membership voice their concerns about matters that affected them.

One area we discussed was: what was working well since the merger and what seemed to be a problem. The working well area comments included we haven't seen much difference; we were happy and relieved that BPW Foundation negotiated the number of members for the assessment (since we have lost some LOs and members since June); the emails seem to be better; we are more satisfied that we can set up our own legislative platform so that it fits us better; and we feel we have more control at state level.

On the problem side, comments included that there was not enough communication from Foundation regarding the merger and terms; we have lost our central information depot—many things we were used to finding on the BPW/USA website aren't there or we can't find them; we need more program diversity on the state level; there is no communication of who is in charge at Foundation to LO members; we feel disconnected to National; we need more definition on how the structure at Foundation works with us; and we need more information on how the Foundation trustees are selected.

ESTER TERRY NIKE AWARD

The prestigious ESTER TERRY NIKE AWARD will be presented at Mid Year Board this year. This is Louisiana BPW's way of honoring our outstanding members for their achievement and contribution to BPW/LA, their BPW local and to their communities.

The criteria for judging will be very much as in previous years.

- No previous recipient will be eligible.
- Her local must endorse the nominee and only one nominee for each local will be accepted.
- The name of the nominee should not appear on the written summary but should appear on the cover letter.
- The deadline for submission must be postmarked on or before Dec. 31, 2009.

- The nominees shall be judged on:
 - Contributions to their local chapter.
 - Contributions to the District, State and National organizations.
 - Support the legislative programs of BPW.
 - Contributions to her community, civic and church organizations, and career activities.

I would like to encourage all local chapters to nominate a deserving person for this prestigious award.

The other stimulating question “Why do you belong to BPW?” led to some interesting discussion. Many belonged because they had a friend(s) who asked them to join; they like the networking opportunities; they liked what BPW did in their community; they liked that BPW was an advocate for working women/mothers with concerns/women in the military; they had made many BPW friends; and they liked to hear what the other LOs were doing.

We also had a report on state membership and where the Foundation relationship was at this time.

Of the 11 present, 3 state officers (Peggy Wells, Vice President; Angie Jackson Wilson-Treasurer; and Linda Burns-Secretary) and 8 Past Presidents were in attendance (Angie Jackson Wilson, Anne Storms, Annie Price, Delia Flynn, Janis Guyton, Judy Wilson, Linda Burns, and Pat Moses Howard). We also presented Angie Jackson Wilson her NIKE (which was awarded at 2009 State Conference).
